Day Time	Chapter Topic	Objectives: The students will be able to:	Teaching Resources:	Teaching Learning Strategies
Day 1	Unit1: Elephants: Reading (Fiction)	➤ improve reading skills ➤ learn new words ➤ learn the concept of non-fiction	textbook, notebook, dictionary, white board	Introduction: Tell the students about non-fiction work piece: It is a piece of writing whose creator, in good faith assumes the responsibility for the truth or accuracy of events, people or information presented. Methodology: Tell the students that the following text has been extracted from the writing of an English vet who worked in the teak forests of Burma in 1930s. He looked after the elephants who worked in the teak forests. He has described his experience with a she-elephant called Ma Kyaw which he had treated for wounds inflicted on her back by a tiger. Assign paragraphs to the groups and ask them to mark unfamiliar vocabulary, encourage them to look for their meanings in the dictionary on their own. Move around the class to observe the reading activity. After completing the reading session, ask the students to share their understanding of the lesson and discuss it with the whole class. Give your feedback after listening their discussion. Vocabulary: The students will solve the questions given in the vocabulary part. Make correction where needed. Wrap up: Wrap up the lesson by asking the students to share why the writer was called the Elephant Bill. Home Work: Revise the work done in homework.
Day 2	Unit1: Elephants: Reading (Fiction)	☐ learn the passive voice	textbook, notebook, whiteboard	Introduction: Initiate the lesson by asking students to share the most interesting part of the story they have read previously. Methodology: Grammar: The passive voice: Tell them that here are 15 gaps in the text that are needed to be filled up with the correct form of the passive voice in the simple past tense. The students will be encouraged to solve it on their own. However, teacher will be there for their guidance. Check their work done and make corrections where required. Wrap up: Wind up the lesson by asking the students to share the significance of using elephants as a ride in the Moghul era. Take their reviews and discuss it with the class. Home Work: The students will use the following words in their own sentences: grateful, barrel, relief, nearby, patted, agreeable, command, familiar

Day 3	Unit1: Elephants: Reading (Fiction)	➤ do the writing task ➤ learn to write a report	textbook, notebook	Introduction: Begin the lesson by asking the students to share if they ever have read a report. Link the discussion with the topic. Methodology: Make the students sit in pairs and ask them to write a report in the given worksheets. For this, let them imagine that they are Elephant Bill and to write a report on the experience with the elephant, Ma kyaw. Let the students discuss the points as they already have read and discussed the story in previous lesson. Observe their activity conducted. Now encourage the groups to share their conclusions and see if all the groups agree with the interpretations of the story. Wrap up: Wrap up the lesson by discussing and reviewing the reports shared by the groups of the students.
